

OPEN ACCESS

The Intersections Between Open Access, Open Educational Resources & Author Rights

A Celebration of Open Access Week

Wednesday, October 26, 2016

12:00 - 3:30pm

Homer Babbidge Library, Class of 1947 Conference Room

12-1:15pm Empowering Authors through Publication Agreements
Maximize control, impact and discoverability of your scholarly output.

Open Access Flavors
What are the different types of open access and why do they matter?

OA? OER? What's the Difference?
Two different movements with a lot in common. How do they support each other?

1:30-3:15pm ORCID ID's
This digital identifier distinguishes you from every other researcher. Learn about the ID and how to use it.

Entering the Creative Commons
What are open licenses and how do they add value to scholarly and creative work?

Managing Your Scholarly ID Online
Make your scholarly author identity visible and available for citation.

UConn's Research Data Repository
Learn how UConn can help make your data publicly available.

Light refreshments will be served.

WHAT IS OPEN ACCESS WEEK?

A global event promoting open access as a new norm in scholarship and research. For more information go to www.openaccessweek.org. For more information on the resources available at UConn go to www.open.uconn.edu

